WIDENING RIFT IN THE INDUSTRIAL CLOUDS

BANKING SYSTEM OF TWIN CITIES A GREAT HELP TO INDUSTRIAL GROWTH OF VALLEY

Four Institutions Here Keeping Apace Of This Section's Progress.

FEDERAL RESERVE IS HERALDED AS BIG AID

Albany-Decatur Are Justly Proud Of Their Quartette Of Banks.

CONDENSED STATEMENT OF BANKING FACILITIES OF THE TWIN CITIES

Morgan County National Bank—President, F. A. Bloodworth located at corner of Johnston St. and Second Avenue. Capital stock $200,000.00.

City National Bank—President Col. C. C. Harris, located at the corner of Vine and Bank streets. Capital stock $200,000.00.

Central National Bank—President A. A. Hardage, located at corner of Johnston St. and Second Avenue. Capital stock $200,000.00.

Tennessee Valley Bank—President Clyde Hendrix located on Bank street, with branch banks at 15 other points in North Alabama. Capital stock $162,000.00.

(By J. E. Blair.)

Mention has been made of the function of the stand pipe water tank of our city water supply. The tank holds a reserve of water to be used in case anything gets wrong with the pipes or pumps; or in case there should be a large demand for water.

There would be no need of "The Reserve National Banks," set up a few years ago, if extra money was not needed to move the crops and finance business. And if there were never abnormal conditions in the development of business.

So frequently have abnormal conditions obtained in the past, that President Wilson and his advisors got the bill made law, providing for the present twelve reserve banks.

This section of the nation is served by the Atlanta Reserve Bank, and this state has a branch of that bank at Birmingham. The national banks of Albany and Decatur are without exception members of the federal reserve system.

The federal reserve law requires that every so-called "member bank," shall furnish 3 percent of its resources as capital stock of the Atlanta Reserve bank.

Also each member bank must keep on deposit in the Atlanta bank seven percent of its demand deposits and three percent of its time deposits. As already hinted, the reserve banks are reservoirs of money, to be drawn on in case of emergency by the member banks. Under the old federal banking laws, if a demand for more ready money developed, national banks could issue currency, but only as they bought United States bonds to cover their issues; and then could issue for only so many dollars as was their capital stock. As it has always been the practice to have out all of their currency allowed by law, there was very little elasticity in our currency system under the old plan. Because, under the new law the federal reserve bank keep money on hand, and because they must lend to member banks on demand, when eligible security is offered, there need now be no such thing as a money panic, such as existed in the past at different times—(when "scrip" and such substitutes for money had to be used). It is clear that as long as banks were limited as to the amount of money they could issue to their own capital stock, and were not allowed to use such a large line of credit security as is now allowed, money would frequently become very "tight"—and during such times it was always charged that "Wall street created a money panic." It is generally conceded that the establishment of the Federal Reserve

DAILY MEETING OF RAILROAD STRIKERS SHORT ONE TODAY

The following official communication was issued today by H. C. Hutchinson, chairman of the publicity committee of the federated shop crafts:

An enthusiastic meeting of the rail strikers was held at the Princess theater this morning. The opening prayer was offered by W. R. McCluskey followed with the regular reports. The principle address was made by W. H. Wilson, chairman of the Boiler Makers union of the L. & N. system. This speaker recounted his experiences on recent visits over the system and the condition of the strikers as he reported it, took up a considerable part of the address. The Publicity Committee read a number of the morning's dispatches, including one, quoting Bishop Williams, of Detroit, as criticizing the Daugherty injunction. Owing to the fact that tomorrow is ladies day with the strikers, the meeting of this morning was cut short. The closing prayer was offered by L. E. Toon.

UNIONS HIT BACK AT COURT'S EDICT

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Striking railway workers today started counter legal action against the government to prevent agents of Attorney General Daugherty from interfering with the affairs of the union.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, one of the striking shop-craft unions, filed suit in the supreme court of the district of Columbia for an injunction restraining Peyton Gordon, federal district attorney, and Edgar C. Snyder, United States marshal, from carrying out the terms of the drastic restraining order which Attorney General Daugherty secured in Chicago.

The suit is the first legal retaliatory blow struck by organized labor against the government's legal proceedings.

DUBLIN, Sept. 7.—Knowledge regarding the rumored arrest of De Valera or the wounding of Erskine Childers was denied today by the publicity department of the Irish government here.

FORMER GOVERNOR O'NEAL DIED TODAY; FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Pneumonia, Following Stroke Of Paralysis, Fatal To Noted Alabamian.

WAS ARDENT ADVOCATE OF HENRY FORD OFFER

Stumped The South In Interest Of Acceptance Of The Bid.

(By International News Service.)

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 7.—Former Governor Emmett O'Neal died here at 6:30 o'clock this morning of pneumonia, following a stroke of paralysis suffered several weeks ago. He was referee in bankruptcy at the time of his death.

Governor O'Neal was born in Florence, Ala., on September 23, 1853, the son of Governor Edward A. O'Neal and Olivia Moore O'Neal. His father was a brigadier general in the Confederate Army.

He served for a time as assistant federal district attorney for the northern district of Alabama. In 1917 he was appointed one of the referees in bankruptcy for the northern district of Alabama, which position he held at the time of his death. He was also a vice president of the American Bar association.

An ardent advocate for Henry Ford's offer for the government nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Governor O'Neal, as president of the Muscle Shoals association, stumped the south in a series of addresses favoring the Ford offer, throwing himself into the work with a vigor which his friends claim finally brought on his fatal illness.

Governor O'Neal is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkman, O'Neal one son, Kirkman O'Neal, a daughter, Miss Olivia O'Neal and two sisters, Mrs. George Dudley of Florence, and Mrs. Eugene Williams, of St. Louis, Mo.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the O'Neal residence here, with Dr. Henry M. Edmonds, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian church, officiating. The body will be sent to Florence to rest in the O'Neal burial plot.

JACKSON TROUBLED OVER OBSTACLES IN WAY OF RESCUERS

(By International News Service.)

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 7.—Jackson was downcast today, following the report of rescuers that it would require from seven to 13 days more to reach the 47 trapped miners in the depths of the fire ridden Argonaut gold mine.

Government, state and mine company engineers declined to comment on this. Rescuers began the eleventh day race with death in the face of heart-breaking obstacles.

Plans to make the main drive in the 3600 foot level of the adjoining Kennedy mine, to reach the entombed men and leaving the task of boring small apertures by the crew working on the 3900 foot level, for water and air pipes were changed today. Both crews will drive straight ahead in an effort to liberate the men.

STATE CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS SET FOR DISCUSSION OF ISSUES OF THE DAY

Preliminary Work Has Been Completed During The Early Hours Of Thursday.

JAMES WEBB WILL CALL THE MEETING TO ORDER

John H. Bankhead Will Be Selected As The Permanent Chairman.

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 7.—Preliminary work has been completed for the first session of the state Democratic convention which will be held at one o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Grand theater.

Caucuses and conferences occupied all of Wednesday morning, afternoon and evening and at the close of the day it seemed positive that the following would be the leaders of the first session:

James H. Webb of Mobile, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, will call the convention to order and will make a short introductory address.

Roy R. Cox of Montgomery, state fuel administrator and chief clerk of the state board of control and economy, will be designated by Mr. Webb as temporary secretary.

Ray Rushton, of Montgomery, will be named by the convention as temporary chairman and will be handed the gavel by Chairman Webb. Mr. Rushton will make the keynote address as soon as he is declared elected.

John H. Bankhead of Jasper will then be elected by acclamation as the permanent presiding officer. Mr. Cox will be elected as permanent secretary.

All factions in the convention seem agreed that this program shall be followed. No opposition has developed to a single name which has been urged in this connection. The organization of the convention will be harmonious.

When the permanent organization has been completed and the addresses have been delivered a committee on resolutions or platform will be elected or appointed. The general opinion is that the convention will authorize the permanent chairman to make the appointments on this committee, which will be the committee for the thrashing out of the differences of the delegates. It is probable that an effort will be made to select the platform or resolutions committee so each congressional district may have the same number of representatives with a small number being allotted to the state-at-large.

This much will the work of the convention be in complete harmony. But there is an indication that one faction of the convention will insist that the report of the platform or resolutions committee be accepted with little change. Another will urge the convention to make adequate provision for the discussion and amendment of each section of the resolution providing for a platform.

Already in conference persons who will be leaders of the convention have suggested planks for the platform. The fact is that two platforms have been written and that a conference of a large number of delegates to the convention has been held and the two platforms considered. The result was that a third platform was written which combined many of the ideas of the two original suggestive platforms.

This proposed platform will be introduced and considered by the committee on platform. Of course, it is possible that many changes may be made in it before it is returned to the convention by the committee.

Henry P. White, of Alexander City, member of the convention from the state-at-large, announced Wednesday night that he will offer a resolution immediately after the convention is organized which will provide a full and free discussion of every proposal in the suggestive platform. He will

Peggy Marsh's Husband Shot

Albert L. Johnson, former army aviator, prominent socially in Cleveland and New York and husband of Peggy Marsh, actress and dancer, accidentally shot himself in the breast while in the camp of "Jack" Clifford, dapper and former husband of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, on Lake Chateaugay, near Plattsburgh, N. Y. Johnson, who was spending the summer there with his wife, was cleaning his revolver. Before her marriage to Johnson Peggy Marsh brought suit against the estate of Henry Field, 2d, grandson of Marshal Field, multi-millionaire Chicago department store owner, for a share of the estate for her son, Anthony Marsh, alleging he was Field's son. The Field family settled $100,000 on her. Johnson has legally adopted the baby.

Several New Teachers Members Of Faculty Of Decatur Public Schools

In connection with the opening of the Decatur school next Monday it is interesting to note the acquisition of several new teachers to the educational life of the city.

Miss Bonnie McCulloch comes from Attalla, and will have seventh grade work.

Miss Margaret Williams, of Florence, comes to the sixth grade.

Mr. Max King, of Arton, will be teacher of high school science and athletic director. Mr. and Mrs. King have arrived and are residing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nesbit, on Church street.

Miss Thelma Hurley of Leighton, and Miss Mittie Pierson, of Brundidge, will return and will make their home with Dr. and Mrs. W. P. McGlawn.

Many Local People Visit Monteagle During Season; Mrs. Austell Honored

MONTAGLE, Tenn., Sept. 7.—The 1922 official season at Monteagle has come to a close, but the summer citizenry hesitates to leave, and there are several hundred people still on the grounds, walking about, visiting, talking and breathing deep of the crisp mountain air.

It is always so. Monteagle is not the place for the "gay life," for frivolities are restricted. No dancing is permitted on the grounds, tho it runs day and night at the Tourist Hotel on the outside nearby, and those who wish to indulge in this diversion need not chafe under the restrictions on the inside.

The several hundred cottages within the assembly grounds have all been occupied this season, mostly by the owners, and it has been delightful. The Alabama colony has been large, and no part of the state has been better represented than Decatur and Albany.

And why not? Monteagle is almost on the very border of Alabama, it is 2,000 feet above sea-level, it is the third largest summer resort platform in the United States, being surpassed only by Chateauqua, N. Y., and winona, Ind. So Alabama is blessed in having so delightful a place so nearby.

Decatur has won distinctive honors here this year, through the election to the presidency of the Monteagle Woman's association, of Mrs. Vera Austell of Decatur. No woman's club probably in all the south will equal this association, in point of membership, and in activity and usefulness. Mrs. Austell will have opportunity for her greatest endeavors, but it is confidently believed she will prove equal to the demands.

Among those attending the chateauqua from Albany and Decatur during the summer were, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hutson and daughter, Elizabeth Ann, Mrs. C. N. Robinson and Susan Bibb, Mrs. Sam Irwin and two daughters, Harriett and Jane, Mrs. Fannie Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Foster H. Pointer and daughters, Marjorie, Louie Moore and Mabel, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thomas and Robin Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Hoff and two boys, Mrs. Vera Austelle and son Malcolm, Mrs. J. W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Preuit Cartwright and two children, Prof. W. W. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hildreth and children.

Underlying these efforts is the belief that once a partial peace is established, it will be only a question of time until, as in the case of the miners strike, the agreements can be extended to embrace a national peace.

An important meeting of the strike leaders was held in Baltimore late yesterday, it was learned today. This meeting followed two days work in Baltimore by Bert M. Jewell, national director of the strike. On Wednesday the presidents of the six striking shop crafts went to Baltimore, engaged a private room and held a five hour session.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and a recognized "moderate" among the executives, did not attend the meeting, but is understood to have been in communication with it.

How much progress toward separate peace agreements was made at the Baltimore session, those attending declined to reveal.

Spokesmen for the strike leaders reported today that the "challenge" of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty for the strike leaders to be in

POLICY COMMITTEE OF SHOP CRAFTS TO VOTE ON PROPOSED SETTLEMENT PLAN

Order, Calling Members Together, Signed By Bert M. Jewell.

STRIKERS' LEADER CUTS SHORT VISIT TO EAST

Heads Of Six Shop Crafts Conferred In Baltimore On Wednesday.

(By International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The dark clouds of the destructive labor-capital war of shopmen and railroads, which threatened to involve all railroad brotherhoods and even go so far as to bring a general labor strike, were split with a widening rift of peace today.

Official call for a meeting of the shop craft policy committee of 90, to vote on the proposed plan of settlement, had gone to the members and decks were being cleared for action.

The meeting will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Sheridan Plaza hotel here.

The order was signed by B. M. Jewell, president of the striking shopmen's organization, and sent out by John Scott, secretary.

This policy committee has the power to accept propositions which will end the strike. The telegrams were sent out after a long distance communication between Jewell and Scott.

Jewell, who was "somewhere in the east" instructed Scott to order the three divisional committees to report in Chicago without fail.

That the meeting on Monday will be of the greatest moment in the industrial crisis that now confronts not only the nation, but all organized labor, is known from the fact that Jewell has cut short his stay in the east and will return to Chicago promptly to confer with his executive council.

The council will go into executive session on Saturday to consider the results of Jewell's negotiations in the east and lay plans for the meeting on Monday.

Favorable action by the policy committee on Mr. Jewell's proposals would mean an almost immediate end of the strike for no vote of the strikers is necessary and Jewell is understood to have arranged most of the important details of a settlement during his trip east.

LABOR TO PROTEST

(By International News Service.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Behind an enveloping mantle of secrecy, leaders of the six striking shop crafts have borrowed a leaf from John L. Lewis' book and are engaged today in a drive to secure a group of separate peace agreements, with those executives who are known to constitute the "moderate element" in the Association of Railway Executives.

Underlying these efforts is the belief that once a partial peace is established, it will be only a question of time until, as in the case of the miners strike, the agreements can be extended to embrace a national peace.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL NOT DOWN.

Like Banco's ghost, the League of Nations will not down. The reported determination of Mr. Justice Clarke to leave the supreme bench in order to present the claims of the League covenant is significant. Judge Clarke is apt to put more "pep" into discussions of the League, if he really undertakes to do so more than any other American. He owns and operates a great daily newspaper. He is one of the most distinguished men of the nation. He is one of the great Democrats of the nation, and he is already spoken of as the Democratic presidential standard bearer in 1921. Stranger things have happened, than for Mr. Justice Clarke to run for the presidency. He will be following the precedent set by Charles E. Hughes, who resigned from the supreme bench, and all but won that desperate prize.

In connection with the possibility of the League again being a national issue in this country it is interesting to note the following dispatch from Paris relative to the interest taken in the fatal article X of the covenant:

"According to well informed French sources the famous article X of the covenant is to be the leading subject of debate in the present league of nations meeting. The admission or rejection of Austria's or Hungary's application for membership, the discussion of Germany's eligibility and minority problems in Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania are all likely to dwindle into insignificance beside the interest certain to again be aroused over the clause guaranteeing the territorial integrity of every adherent nation—the same clause which caused the United States to refrain from enjoying league membership.

According to reports the question will be brought up at the present meeting to again "prepare for the entrance of the United States into the league." The first European news on the subject comes from the foreign minister of Estonia in an interview given to the press in Reval. This official proclaims that Canada intends to demand the abrogation of article X and also that Denmark will propose a resolution to the effect that war will not serve as a basis for territorial conquest."

LARGER EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES MEAN GREATER PROSPERITY.

The door of opportunity swings wide, in proportion to the number, variety and quality of our educational institutions, provided, of course, the people, young and old, duly appreciate their institutions of learning. If the taxpayers do not open good schools and provide good teachers, or if the denominational schools are not adequate, the doors of opportunity are effectually closed against the youth of the future. But if those who should get the benefits of learning, both young and old, do not avail themselves of their privileges, again opportunity goes begging. That Alabama youths are seeing and accepting the advantages of education is seen and proven by the fact that a steadily increasing stream of students is pouring into our state and denominational colleges. And at no time in the history of the state has such a great effort been made all along the line to provide sleeping quarters, board, good teachers and all the modern facilities for a modern, up-to-date education. The campaigns now on in behalf of the state university and Auburn college, are cases in point that prove that the people of the state are awakening to their privileges, duties and great responsibilities as regards education.

One brand new departure being made in some states is providing a survey of the tendencies and natural aptitudes of students who have reached the high school grades, with a view of providing them such educational advantages as will best fit them for the battle of life and for service to humanity. This movement takes knowledge of the act that "square pegs in round holes" do not do well, and that round pegs in square holes are useless. The leaders of the movement believe with the distinguished writer who said: "Study well wherein kind nature meant you to excel." The information sought is: How many high school students desire to go to college—how many of this number have the means to go to college—what vocations have they expressed a preference for? If the state makes the progress in education demanded, its people must not only provide education, but also the kind needed, and on top of that the needs of the individual students must be met.

Until students are able to "digest" what they learn and put it to use, the financial value of education will never be realized, and our educational institutions will not contribute their quota to the material wealth and general prosperity of the commonwealth.

When words cease to have the ring of truth in them, they have just become "bull" that's all.

UNITED STATES SOME CENTURIES AHEAD OF MANY LANDS IN PROGRESS.

You cannot get around the fact that the United States is several centuries ahead of the rest of the world in all that is worth while in living conditions, conveniences, luxuries and satisfaction. In most things we are so far ahead of the old and conservative lands of Europe that there is no comparison between the two. Many millions of people across the water are living still in the twelfth century, some of them farther back than that. A lot of them have not caught up yet with the fact that America has been discovered.

In some of the most progressive Oriental lands modern methods and customs are as yet almost unknown. Japan, with half our population, now has only 12,260 autos. Here in America we have 10,500,000 motorcars. In all other countries combined there are only 2,500,000 cars.

This is a revelation about our comparative standard of living. For the auto, more than any other commodity, is an index to prosperity—that is, as Americans conceive prosperity.

Japan, comments the Wall Street Journal, is passing through the bicycle stage.

The Japanese are using 2,100,000 bicycles and about 111,000 jinrikishas—the two-wheeled hooded carts, drawn by trotting coolies, invented by an American missionary.

The bicycle of Japan is slowly crowding out the jinrikisha. Let's see, it's about 15 to 20 years since bicycles were all the rage in America. We are just about as many years ahead of Japan—probably more, for with its smaller national resources it will take Japan longer to catch up with our present state of automobilism.

Not a bad country, these United States, when you give the subject a little thought and a grain of appreciation. We are so much better off than other countries that our constant grumbling suggests maybe we have become so accustomed to the fat of the land that we expect too much.

This "expecting too much" however, is what has raised us to our present high average standard of living. No standard of living is too high, as long as the national resources and the production of the individual make the standard possible. As a matter of production. We cannot eat crops that aren't grown, live in houses that aren't built, or burn coal that isn't mined.—Anniston Star.

When the frost makes picturesque pictures on the window panes; when a sheet of ice encases the boughs on the trees; when the limbs of the pine trees are swaying under the weight of the accumulated snow; when the shrill shrieks of the northwest wind come with unrelenting fury, then will the longing for some of the days which we are now having find the uppermost rooms of our thoughts, and we peer forward again to the days of springtime, and long again for some of the shady spots which we hold in our memory.

It is just contrast. We think now, today, that we will welcome the cold of Winter when it comes but it is just one of the things we long for, which upon the attaining of it, its value ceases to us, and we stretch forth the imagination to some other time and place, when other conditions will greet us.

This is the restless and unsatisfied part of the being of man. We make preparations for its coming with a degree of anticipated pleasure, only to find after it arrives and is in our possession, not to have the value to us which we anticipated it would.

STATE CONVENTION.

The state convention at Montgomery today is the first of its kind held since the good year of 1912, two years before the World war broke out.

In many respects it will be a memorable one, a governor has been elected by one of the largest majorities ever recorded in the state. Old ideas will be eliminated from the politics of the country and new ones injected in their stead.

There is no doubt but that there will be some of the old time oratory flow in the convention hall as of yore, and the convention will sit spell bound as one of their favorite sons delights them and gains the ear, as some pet measure is being put forward to the delegates.

The governor-elect will also make an address of acceptance, which will no doubt reflect his attitude on many of the questions which his administration will have to do.

It is expected to be a very harmonious meeting and matters of far-reaching importance within the realm of the Democratic party will be promulgated and become a vital part of the organic law of the party.

BE A SPORTSMAN.

Along the roadsides can now be seen the coveys of quail, young birds from this year's hatch. They are not grown, but are able to fly and take care of themselves, unless hot lead be sent after them. When it is considered that these birds are our best friends, and that the work they do each year in helping to make it possible for the farmer to raise his crops, thus contributing in a very marked degree to every one, it is quite certain that they are entitled to some consideration.

A real sportsman will not kill more of them than he needs for one meal. A real sportsman will not pot them, but will give them a fighting chance for their lives. A real sportsman will not net or trap them. In other words, a real sportsman will play fair, taking no undue advantage of them, and will use every means to see that others are not guilty of the things which he will not do.

It is great sport to hunt quail. They are now becoming quite plentiful. With a rigid enforcement of the game laws, permeated with a large degree of sportsmanship, there will always be plenty of these beautiful and edible birds, and they will contribute to the delightful menus and also do their part in taking care of and making it possible that the things upon which they subsist, can be raised in measurable quantities.

Be a sportsman and give the birds a chance. It is more than probable that there will always be plenty of them for sport if some of these ideas are carried into effect.

It is not the number of thoughts you have, but the turnover you give them, and the uses you put them to.

Summer refuses to surrender to Fall.

Banking System Of Twin Cities A Help

Reserve Bank Aids All Banks
The establishment of the Federal reserve banks have proven a great benefit to the entire banking business. It has stabilized national and state banks alike. These cities boast of the possession of four large banks, one of which is the Tennessee Valley Bank, which consists of a chain of 10 banks throughout this section of the state with a capital stock of $300,000.00. The other banks are the Morgan County National Bank, of Albany, the City National Bank of Decatur, and the Central National Bank of Albany, each with a capital of $200,000.00, according to the "American Bank Reporter."

Thus the capital stocks alone of the banks of Albany and Decatur, lack only $100,000 dollars of being $1,000,000.00.

The resources of the local banks may safely be placed $2,000,000.00.

General Workings of a Bank
The first requirement to secure a national bank, according to W. B. Shackelford, is to satisfy federal authorities that a real need exists for a national bank. Contrary to popular opinion it does not require $50,000 capital stock, to secure a national bank charter, as in small places as low as $25,000 is acceptable. For instance there is a national bank in Washington, Mo., capitalized at $25,000.

The charter is a license to do business. The chief safeguard thrown around a bank, is its strict supervision and examination made by bank examiners. Any security satisfactory to a bank, is acceptable but except in case of marketing products, no loan is to be made to any one customer in excess of 10 percent of the bank's surplus and capital stock.

The day's routine of work at a bank consists in examining the orders or wants of its customers, attention to notes, a. r. c. securities, and applications for loans. There is considerable transfer of funds and sales of bonds.

"Only today" said Mr. Shackelford, "we were asked by school district authorities in this county to find a market for certain school bonds."

Banks accept money on time and issue what are termed "time certificates" which bear interest or establish savings departments. In the use of the funds of any bank a considerable reserve must be maintained, that is, no bank is allowed to loan out all or practically all of its holding.

In all Twin City banks, checking accounts are handled without charge, but in some cities a charge of fifty cents is made to open any account, if it falls under $100.00. The need of thrift was impressed by all the local bankers, and a due appreciation of the value of credit was insisted upon by all the bankers. Some said the necessity of maintaining a bank account, however small, should be taught regularly in the public schools. "Such a procedure would tend to put a lot of money in circulation" said W. B. Shackelford.

The Farmers and Banks
In speaking of the service rendered farmers by banks F. A. Bloodworth said:

"During recent years there has been much closer co-operation between the banker and the farmer. This has resulted in a more prosperous condition in the agricultural sections, both as affecting the farmer and all business interests."

"In the law creating our great Federal Reserve system an exception is made favoring farmer's loans, in that the Federal Reserve banks are authorized to rediscount for the member banks loans running not to exceed six months where the proceeds of such loans have been used for agricultural purposes, while the time limit on all other loans eligible for rediscount is ninety days."

"This, however does not apply to loans on farm lands, such loans not being eligible for rediscount with the Reserve banks. Congress has come to the assistance of the farmer on his real estate loans by the establishing of the Federal Land banks, which are separate organizations and have no connection with the Federal Reserve banks."

"In an effort to improve the quality of the cows of Morgan county, the banks of Albany last year bought and sold at actual cost to the boys and girls of this county fifteen registered jersey heifers. The boys and girls have derived pleasure and practical training in caring for these heifers and are now beginning to receive revenue from them."

Banks have been in close touch with the farmers of Morgan and Lawrence Counties for years rendering assistance to a large number in growing and marketing their crops."

Banks and Industry
In speaking of the relation of banks to industry A. Bowles said:

"Industry can be expanded or contracted very largely by the attitude of banks. One can readily see how banks are allied with industries by

CHILDREN SLAIN BY IRATE NEIGHBOR

(By Associated Press.)

YORK, S. C., Sept. 7.—Lela Taylor, 16 and Newton Taylor 12, died today of gunshot wounds received at their home yesterday when William Faris, a neighbor, is alleged to have shot and killed their cousin, Claude Johnson and seriously wounded their two sisters.

The authorities stated the shooting followed a series of quarrels between the Taylor and Faris children. Faris was rushed to the state penitentiary at Columbia.

glancing at the following facts:

"1st. The National Banks own stock in the Federal Reserve Bank, one of the greatest systems in the world, amounting to $68,724,000.

"2nd. State, county and municipal bonds $893,682,000.

"3rd. Collateral, trust and other corporation notes $159,766,000.

"4th. Stock of other corporations, $62,541,000.

"5th. Railroad bonds $404,936,000.

"6th. Other public service corporation bonds $277,205,000.

"You can readily see from the above six salient facts and figures National Banks are doing their bit to finance industry, and as credit or purchases of the stock and bonds are withdrawn or expanded business in a like measure either expands or contracts.

"The banks of these communities are always ready and willing to help finance any local industrial plants, and by so doing each stockholder of the banks is more or less interested in the enterprise financed."

"The industrial plants of our community call on local institutions from time to time to aid in financing their heavy business, and without exception these enterprises are given the necessary aid, sometimes by direct loans or advances on shippers order bill of lading, then too, occasionally it becomes necessary to handle acceptances against commodities stored for domestic or foreign shipment. The latter method, in an innovation by the Federal Reserve bank, and one of the most satisfactory ways of lending financial aid, as it bears the late rate of interest."

Chain of Banks
The name of the late S. S. Broadus is forever linked with the branch banking system established by him thirty years ago this summer, known as the Tennessee Valley Bank. At present there are 16 branches of this bank whose home office is on Bank street, Decatur. At the time of Mr. Broadus' death several years ago, there were six branch banks in the system. Clyde Hendrix, succeeded to the presidency and during his administration additional branches have been added, until at present there is a total of 16 located as follows: Cherokee, Courtland, Falkville, Florence, Hurley, Haleyville, Hillsboro, Leighton, Paint Rock, Russellville, Scottsboro, Sheffield, Stevenson, Town Creek, and Tusculum. There are 200 stock holders, and they pass or recommend dividends. The bank is organized under the state banking laws of Alabama, and the books are subject to regular examinations by state officials, just as a national bank's books are examined by federal officials. An interesting feature of the Tennessee Valley Bank, is the establishment, some time ago of a profit sharing system for its employees who number 57.

Annual meetings of the employees are held in April of each year, when a banquet and general good time is held. The annual meetings of the stockholders are held in February of each year.

Work Progresses On New Highway

J. M. Jackson, of Leesdale, is in the city today on business. Mr. Jackson says that the road east of Hartselle, which he is building, is progressing satisfactorily, they being able to get something above 40 loads of rock laid down each day. This road is one of the finest now being built in the county, and 1,300 yards of rock to the mile is being put on it. It has every appearance of being a most substantial roadway, and those who have had the occasion to travel it recently can testify to its fine qualities, both in its appearance and smoothness of travel. It is estimated that it will take until January 1923 to complete the length of the contract.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By ANNE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am nearly 15, and began to go to a while with a young man even years my senior about eight months ago.

He says he works, but he doesn't seem to care for me only to go with me once in a while. I became acquainted with another young man who lives far away. He came to see me every three weeks, and wrote me often, and has good work. He seems to care for me and I him.

The first young man would come to see me when he didn't have a date. He finally became jealous of the other young man, and didn't want me to go with him.

So I quit the other one and went with the first young man. About three months ago he asked me to marry him, and I gave my consent. After a while I found out I didn't care for him as I should to be engaged.

I broke the engagement and have been going out with other young men. Now he says he will have me in the end.

I am writing to the other young man who lives far away now, and I want to know if I should go to marry the first young man?

CURLY TOP.

you will know your own mind, and will not have to appeal to any one to make your decision. When you go to him, you will know it, and will not be confused as to your choice.

You are too young to marry now. Don't you think so yourself?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have known a young man for four years. He is three years my senior. About six months ago he asked me to go out with him, and I accepted, and have been going out for four months.

I found out in the meantime that he had also been keeping company with another girl. She is only 14, while I am 15. He told some friends of his that he loved me very much. I am sure that I love him. I have tried several times to put him from my mind, but find it is impossible. Will you kindly advise me what to do to win his friendship back again?

LONESOME JEAN.

LONESOME JEAN: The young man is not engaged, so there is no reason why the fact that he goes about with another girl should keep you from having him for a friend, my dear. Go about with him and enjoy the society of other young men, too.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

John Lotheridge Dies At Hartselle; Family Was Sick

HARTSELLE, Ala., Sept. 7.—John W. Lotheridge, one of the earlier residents of Hartselle, died Wednesday evening about 5 o'clock at a little home down the mountain north of here, and near the Louisville and Nashville double track. The house is in an isolated place, with no neighbors near, and the seriousness of conditions existing there never dawned upon any of the citizens here, until some one who chanced to be passing by and stopped at a spring near there for a drink. They were called on for assistance, and at once came to town and summoned other help. Mr. Lotheridge was found to be in a dying condition, and died soon after help came. Mrs. Lotheridge, with a five months old baby was sick, as were the other children, and none able to wait on the sick.

Citizens from here at once went to the place, carrying such necessary things as were needed, and did all in their power to ameliorate conditions. The burial will take place today in the city cemetery.

Six Delicious Substitutes for the "Extra Vegetable."

POTATOES in some form and an extra vegetable usually appear on the home table served with the meat course. Rice, macaroni, a cooked fruit, a dairy dish or even a mixed-fish delicacy may, however, at times take the place of the extra vegetable. It is a convenience to have recipes for a few of these substitute dishes, for sometimes a fresh or canned vegetable is not at hand, and one is forced to think quickly and prepare something in its place.

When baking is done in a casserole or earthenware dish, the dish should be covered with a folded napkin and sent to the table for to remove the contents in most cases would spoil them. Many of these dishes are labor-savers because they may be prepared in the morning, then slipped into the oven in time to be properly cooked for dinner.

Baked Spanish Rice.

Wash three-quarters of a cupful of large, headed rice and boil it in the usual way until done, then drain and dry for three minutes in a warm oven, leaving the door open during the process. Slice one Spanish onion very thin and cook it in a frying-pan with a half-cupful of olive oil or an ounce of butter until done, but not brown. Take a small can of sweet red peppers, drain and chop them, and add them to the rice and onion, drain the juice of one can of tomatoes into the mixture, then chop the pulp and add that. Butter a baking-dish and turn in the mixture, adding butter, pepper, salt and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Dust the top with a tablespoonful of dry crumbs or the same amount of grated cheese. Bake for thirty or forty minutes in a medium oven or until nicely browned.

Baked Eggplant.

Select one large, firm eggplant and pare it with a sharp knife, then chop it fine. Butter a deep baking-dish and dust it with fine crumbs, put a layer of eggplant on the bottom, then a layer of sliced tomatoes, dust with butter, dust with pepper and salt and a tablespoonful of sugar and sprinkle with chopped onion and pepper. Then comes a thin layer of crumbs. Begin again with the eggplant and repeat the process until all

Bible Thought for Today

PROCLAMATION OF PEACE—Glory be to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.—Luke 2: 14.

Huge Apple Tree.

At Meeth gardens, Helston, Cornwall, England, is a remarkable apple tree planted over seventy years ago. It needs a 35-stave ladder to reach the top branches, and the tree is dome shaped, with branches reaching to the ground. When underneath the tree it looks like a room capable of holding over 200 persons. It is reported to be the largest apple tree in Cornwall, Devon and Somerset, and this season was loaded with fruit of very fine quality estimated to weigh over two tons.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCIFFE

Describing a Child's Afternoon Frock in Two Shades of Blue.

LAST week-end I went to visit an old friend who has a cunning house in the suburbs. She has three children and doesn't often come into the city, so I spend an occasional week-end there so that we may keep in touch with each other.

"I always want to ask you a thousand questions about clothes," Valerie remarked when we were seated in the living-room after dinner.

"You know, we hear so many conflicting reports on the length of skirts, the size of sleeves, and things of that kind that I never know just what to believe."

"Of course, those things vary with the whim of the maker, at least to a certain degree," I answered.

"That I know," Valerie agreed. "And as I've already assembled my spring things I'm really more interested in clothes for the children just now."

"I don't see how you ever get around to all three of them and manage to have them so well-dressed and stylish," I commented.

"It is a job," she said with a smile. "It's especially hard in the spring and summer, for they require so many little tub frocks. It keeps the laundress busy, and, of course, they'll have to change often when the warmer days come and they dress up in the afternoons."

"Little wash dresses are nice for children," I agreed, "but if I had three children to dress I should certainly substitute a few frocks that weren't of the tub variety, and couldn't be so easily soiled."

"Do give me some ideas," Valerie said, eagerly. "I'm expecting to work with the sewing-woman who will be in the house for the next ten days, and I should love to have you design a frock or two."

I found a pencil and some paper on the desk and paused, pencil in air, tapping my forehead thoughtfully.

"I want to think of something that will be attractive for dress-up occasions, and still won't soil easily," I explained.

"Don't you think crepe mohair is attractive?" I asked, as I thought of a frock which would be cunning for the little blue-eyed girl.

"I like it very much," said Valerie, while I went on to explain that in the way I had in mind, the slight stiffness of the material would be an asset rather than undesirable quality.

"You see, the straight front and back panels are of navy crepe mohair," I said, as I sketched. "The sides are of soft, periwinkle-blue georgette."

"My practical eye is delighted at once," Valerie declared. "Aside from the fact that it's very pretty, I'm amazed."

Falkville News

The Falkville school opened Monday, September 4th, with prospects for the best school in its history. The auditorium was packed with parents and students for the opening address which was made by Dr. R. K. Morgan of Petersburg, Tenn. The speech was a masterpiece, and very fitting for the occasion. The older citizens say that it was the best speech ever delivered in the town.

The faculty is composed of the following teachers: J. A. McGee, principal. Mathematics and Science; Henry Standridge, Language; Mrs. J. B. Elliott, History; Miss Evye Winn, 5th and 6th grade; Mrs. G. W. Loggins 3rd and 4th grade; Miss Bessie Jenkins, first and second grades; Miss Alva Francis, Music.

The enrollment has gone beyond the 200 mark. The patrons and citizens are planning to build a modern building before another session shall open.

The election for enlarging the city limits held on the 6th, carried. There will be a mass meeting held tonight to nominate a mayor and board of aldermen.

TEXAS GUINAN TO BE SEEN IN SHE-MAN ROLE TODAY

Playing a dual role of two widely different natures, Texas Guinan has completed one of the finest pieces of work of her career in "The Stamped" to be seen at the Delite today. She has been given a special role that is adapted toward bringing out two distinct traits of her character and ability.

As Texas Henderson, daughter of Jim Henderson, of the cattle country, she has grown up in the saddle, and in this role she has ample opportunity to display her robust, manly abilities. With a series of mischievous cowboy tricks and dressed in the traps of a cowman Texas Guinan does the fighting and hard riding that this part of her characterization demands. As Tex Guinan, the woman, she shows those human and womanly qualities which are a requisite to love and motherhood.

Nursing Mary, the daughter of the man she loves, there is aroused in her all those finer instincts which have lain dormant during her rough life. For the first time she looks upon Bob Wagner as more than a friend and man, she sees in him the man she loves. It is this motive that arouses her womanly grace and personality which wins for her the man she wants.

The Decatur Public school will open Monday morning, September 11, at 8:30. The public is invited.

The fees are the same as last year, payable in advance at the City Hall. The Board of Education insists on prompt payment.

Resident pupils pay only incidental fees at the beginning of each quarter. Grammar grades, One Dollar per quarter; High School, Two Dollars per quarter. Quarters begin September 11, November 13, January 15, and March 19.

Non-resident pupils pay tuition in advance each month, as follows: Grammar grades, Two and Fifty Hundredths Dollars ($2.50) per month; High School, Three and Fifty Hundredths Dollars ($3.50) per month.

Children six years old on or before October 1st, will be admitted the first day of school.

Teachers' meeting next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Pupils who desire special examinations report at 10 o'clock, Saturday; also others who may want to get their book lists before Monday.

I am directed by the State Department of Education to announce that the Twin City Teachers' Institute will be held with the Decatur school Saturday, September 16.

The Negro school will open September 11. Incidental fees are payable in advance to principal J. E. Pickett. Grammar grades, Fifty Cents per quarter; High School, One Dollar per quarter.

A compulsory attendance period is the first 100 days beginning September 11th. All children between the ages of 8 and 16 years are required by law to attend school, except a few who may be able to secure legal exemptions. The recent July census records their ages. Mr. C. M. Riggsbee has been elected attendance officer.

court in Chicago next Monday, when the permanency of the Daugherty injunction is to be argued, will be accepted.

Meantime it became known today that the executive council of the American Federation of Labor will meet in Washington, instead of Atlantic City on next Saturday, to canvass sentiment for a general strike in retaliation for the drastic Daugherty injunction.

There is little likelihood of a general strike, but if Judge Wilkerson makes his temporary restraining order permanent in its present form, it is likely there will be a concerted protest from all organized labor.

This protest may take the form of a general strike of all labor for one day, in order to impress upon the country the bitter resentment that organized labor feels toward the government's action.

CONFERENCE DENIED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—There are no conferences now in progress between strike leaders and railroad presidents and none have been held since the formal gatherings in New York last month, it was asserted today by J. P. Noonan, chief of the Brotherhood of Electrical workers, one of the striking unions.

The meeting of the strikers' policy committee, called for next week at Chicago is to consider the general strike policy and what shall be done in view of the Daugherty injunction application, he said.

ACTION DISCUSSED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—After a conference between Attorney General Daugherty and Senator Borah, chairman of the senate labor committee, regarding the Chicago injunction, it was indicated the government would not insist at next Monday's hearing on the provisions to curb the freedom of speech.

CONFERENCE DEADLOCKED

New York
Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A restless and enterprising resident of Garden City Long Island, is doing his best to make the city up-to-date, even if it eventually lands him in jail. A few nights ago, at one of the local clubs, a business man was heard expressing himself on the general slowness and sleepiness of his home town. "Folks ought to waken up a bit," he said. "They go to bed at 10 o'clock." Shortly afterwards, people's telephone bells began ringing along about two and three a. m., and when the frightened householder is sufficiently awake to find the 'phone and answer it, he is met by cheery laughter and the person calling cuts off. The telephone company and the police are working together to make sure that they are on the trail of the right man, and then Garden City folks are going to have their good ten hours of sleep again.

It's pathetic the way some people have to work so hard to make an honest living and then have it stolen from them. Here's the poor bootleggers, now. "Bootleggers have to hire watchmen nowadays because so many people are dishonest," A. F. Dercole told Magistrate Oberwager the other day in court, at the arraignment of two men charged with illegal transportation of liquor. Dercole said he was employed as a watchman by bootleggers.

Life keeps pretty well-balanced in spite of everything. Every time delicatessens or votes take woman away from her hours at home, something else draws her back. We talked "woman's place is in the home" for so long that we grew convinced that it was true. Then it all seemed upset; but now who comes along to lengthen women's hours at home? Who, indeed, but those benefactors who make her beautiful! Four hours at a beauty shop to get a hair-wave made permanent has been for the past few years accepted as an essential part of woman's routine every six months or so. It was too bad that the beef must go unroasted and the baby unadorned on those afternoons, but fashion spoke and must be obeyed. Now, Nestle, the man who started all the trouble has come to the rescue. He is sending forth a home outfit to overcome that difficulty. This is the fruition of 17 years of work on improvements of various kinds to make waves lovelier and more lasting and all that, until he has achieved the climax in this "every-woman-her-own-waver-in-her-own-home" equipment for his new lanol process. It contains the curling heaters, bottle of lanol, 30 flannel strips and all else that goes to turning plain Mary into lovely Marilyn.

LEAGUE AT WORK

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—The League of Nations assembly today continued its discussion of the report on the work of the council. The question of relief for Austria entered the phase of practical study with appointment of a special committee, composed exclusively of members of the interested states.

If William Allen White has doubts about the modern boys' love for dogs being what it used to be, he ought to comfort himself with the thought of little girls' affection for them. Story tellers may assign the dog as the special friend of boy, but facts don't bear them up. A black and white setter dog over in Brooklyn owes its life to the sympathy of the little girl it attacked the other day. Patrolman Humers saw the setter go after the child, tear her dress and throw her into a panic. He rushed to the spot and was about to shoot the dog when the little girl pleaded with him so intensely for its life that he relented and took it to the police station instead to hold for examination.

Jane Cowl will play the principal role in the first production of the Equity Players at the Forty-eighth street theater. The opening production will be a modern Spanish play entitled "Malvaloca". After two months, which has been fixed as the life of each play, Miss Cowl will return to the management of the Selwyns. The Equity Players will then produce "Hospitality", an American tragedy by Leon Cunningham. They will begin their season, October 2.

A brand new business has come to town. It is flower renting. When a dinner party is being given the hostess can go down the block and rent gorgeous flowers for the table. They are put up in such a manner that they can be placed back on display and redisplayed of readily. Sometimes the same bouquets grace five or six dinner tables before they are abandoned forever.

State Convention
Of Democrats Set

ask the convention to authorize a general discussion of thirty minutes on each platform returned by the platform committee, thus anticipating that the majority and minority of the platform committee will make reports.

After this discussion the convention would determine which proposed platform would be considered first cepted as the business for immediate and when one platform has been accepted every section of the proposed platform would be subject to amendment from the floor.

Mr. White's resolution embodying this suggestion which he will introduce follows:

"Resolved: 1.—That the convention shall by a majority vote of a quorum present and voting adopt as the measure pending before the convention any one of the several reports made by the resolutions (platform) committee proposing the party platform.

"2.—That before the convention adopts any report from the resolutions committee as the pending measure thirty minutes shall be allowed for the explanation of each report. This time to be controlled by the member or members of the committees favorable to such report.

"3.—After the expiration of the time allowed for explanation of each separate report from the resolutions committee and not sooner without consent of the sponsors of the several reports, the convention shall by a majority vote of a quorum present and voting adopt one of said reports as the measure pending before the convention for consideration.

"4.—After the adoption of the pending measure, the report so adopted shall be considered by the convention as a committee of the whole by sections according to subject matter. Each separate section shall be considered separately. As each section in order is read by the secretary of the convention any member of the convention may propose amendments to the particular section under consideration. Such section shall not be disposed of finally until all proposed amendments thereto have been acted upon by the convention. Each proposer of an amendment or another delegate named by him shall have as a matter of right three minutes to explain the proposed amendment to the convention. No motion to cut off debate or other final motion shall be in order until the proposer of the amendment or his substitute named by him shall have exercised or waived his right to this three minute explanation."

Mr. Bankhead has let it be known that he does not favor cutting off debate and that every person should have a right to tell the convention what he believes should be included in the platform of the party. It is considered certain that the convention will not complete its work Thursday and that the sessions will run into Friday. The general opinion is that the delegates will be able to leave Montgomery for their homes on the trains early Friday afternoon.

Famous American Oaks.

Besides the South Carolina oak three other famous oaks have been named for the Hall of Fame. One is in New Jersey, one in New Orleans and the third in Massachusetts. The last named is known as the Indian War oak. It is in Grafton, Mass., a place which figured prominently during the early wars against the Indians.

Antiquity of Honey.

Honey is probably the most ancient and honorable of all sweet foods. Its pedigree is older than the pyramids. Pythagoras' famous recipe for longevity was: "Eat nothing on your bread but honey."

How, Indeed.

Outside the Gaiety theater in London there is a large poster: "Madame Maria Kossneff. World Famous Operatic Diva." A countryman, having come along the Strand, stood gazing at this poster. "Lumme!" he said. "Now, how the devil does you woman sing w' her mouth full o' water?"

Before Baby Comes

THERE are thousands of expectant mothers who undergo much useless suffering for months before, as well as at the moment when delivery occurs. These months of suffering, with nerves and vital organs weakened, leave their effect upon the child. An eminent physician found the way to stop much of this unnecessary suffering—the same easy way which thousands of mothers have used for three generations.

Mrs. Walter S. Hadley, Bridgeport, Ind., says: "Before my little boy came I was so paralyzed in my hips and limbs I could hardly walk, and some days after a little extra exertion I couldn't walk a step. I felt it coming on this time; in fact, I could hardly get up when I sat down, but now, after using one bottle of Mother's Friend, I am so much better. I feel that I almost owe my life to Mother's Friend."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It penetrates remarkably, permitting the easier relaxation and distension of muscles, nerves, tissues and ligaments, and their constant easier readjustment during expectancy and at child-birth. Have no more fear or dread, mother! Start using "Mother's Friend" now—the sooner the better.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor, because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. For three generations "Mother's Friend" has relieved expectant mothers of much useless suffering. Mother! you must avoid mere greases and useless substitutes. Begin using "Mother's Friend" today. It is sold at drug stores—everywhere.
